MR. YEAGER DROPPED

SENSATION IN LABOR CIRCLES.

CITY CLERK IS SHAVED BY A NON-UNION BARBER.

Union Delegates Admitted.

City Clerk George E. Yeager was yester day expelled from the Trades Assembly to which body he has been a delegate for years. His removal was caused by the Barbers' Union, which organization claimed that Yeager was in the habit of patroniz ing a non-union barber shop.

The removal of City Clerk Yeager from the Trades Assembly will cause quite a sensation in labor and political circles. He is a member of the Retail Clerks' Union and has represented that union in the and has represented that union in the Trades Assembly for years. He was elect-ed city clerk at the last municipal election on the Republican ticket by a very large majority. Mr. Yeager could not be found yesterday, but it is understood that the matter will be straightened out and that he will be reinstated as a delegate to the assembly. He has always been a very active worker for organized labor in this city.

When these two men presented their credentials about two months ago the assembly refused to admit them, on the grounds that the Anchor Union had acted too hastily in declaring a certain boycott. The Anchor Union has heretofore acted independently of he assembly, which is the central labor body of this city, and it was decided to refuse that union representation. The matter was finally patched up and Anchor Union will be allowed a voice in the proceedings of allowed a voice in the proceedings of

A communication was received from State Labor Commisioner Johnson in regard to the removal of the union painters at the Osawatomie asylum. The Painters' Union made complaint about the discharge of these union men and the employment of "scabs" in their stead, and the Assembly requested Commissioner Johnson to investigate the matter. Unless the union men are reinstated Governor Leedy will have the laborites on his back. The Federation of Labor of Chicago sent a communication to the Assembly in which the Postal Savings bank proposition is thoroughly explained. The labor unions all over the country are being asked to agitate the matter. They hope to make a savings bank out of the postoffices. The scheme is thought to be a good one by the laboring people as it will guarantee the safe keeping of the poor man's savings. scheme is thought to be a good one by the laboring people as it will guarantee the safe keeping of the poor man's savings. The following were obligated: Painters' Union, F. D. Heislerman and J. A. McCormick, Anchor Union, C. W. Marsh and Walter Martin. J. H. Elsert was elected recording secretary of the Assembly. The Labor Day committee reported everything was in readlaces for the grand celebration which will take place to-day.

CALAMITY'S HIGH PRIESTS.

They Will Meet Under the Names of Democrats and Populists Next Friday.

Next Friday.

The Democrats and Populists will hold their primaries Friday, and on Saturday they will go into convention and make an effort to arrange a ticket which will receive the approval of the fusionists of this section. The Demo-Pop committee met some time ago and decided upon a basis of distribution and as usual the Populists were given places on the ticket where the Democrats could not hope to elect a candidate. The Democratic bosses have always done the dictating in matters pertaining to fusion and have landed most of the offices that have gone to the fusion crowd.

taining to fusion and have landed most of the offices that have gone to the fusion crowd.

There is a bitter feeling existing between the old-time Democrats and the Leedy Populists. The Democrats of Wyandotte county are not proud of Leedy's administration and there are a large number of Pops equally dissatisfied.

The ticket to be nominated Saturday will be a fusion ticket in name only, as a straight Democratic ticket will likely be placed in the field and then the dissatisfied element of Populists will cause several independent candidates to enter the race. An effort is being made to get Dr. Doyle and his crowd to cease their fighting, but the doctor has not forgotten the rough treatment he received at the Democratic central committee meeting and he promises to make some one regret the "thugism" which was resorted to by some of the Democratic pluggers.

Democratic Ringsters Vote Against Daylight Primaries-Kansas Photographers to Meet To-day.

It developed yesterday that the secre ession of the Democratic committee held Saturday afternoon, was anything but harmonious. Ex-Sheriff Chauncy Flora who is a candidate for the Democratic mination, was treated in an outrageous manner by members of the ring who have picked out a ticket with Peter Everlardy picked out a ticket with Peter Everlardy for sheriff and Olie Chapin for treasurer. Mr. Flora attended the committee meeting, and at the proper time made a request that the primaries be held in daylight to prevent the use of repeaters and unfair methods. He also asked that the primaries be conducted under the state primary exciton law. The law was read by the secretary of the committee, by request of Er. Flora, and after a brief discussion the effice holders and ringsters, who were in a majority in the committee, voted for night primaries.

This means that dishonest primaries will be held, and that the members of the rigg will use the police force, repeaters and every method of fraud possible.

Mr. Flora also made a request that the places of holding the primaries be changed in three of the wards to central points so that it would be handy for all Democrats to attend. This request, like the other, was denied, and not even considered in a respectful manner. The action of the ringsters Saturday shows plainly that Mr. Flora will not receive fair treatment, and that the slate already arranged for will be put through at all hazards. Mr. Flora is displeased over the brutal treatment that has been accorded him, but he has no notion of dropping out of the contest.

NOW, HOW ABOUT ALL THIS?

MR. LONG SAYS PEOPLE ARE ANX-IOUS TO HEAR BRYAN EXPLAIN.

As He Is Billed for Kansas This Week It Will Be Mighty Interesting to Watch His Words.

Hon, Chester I. Long left last night for home. He is highly pleased with the business outlook and this also has much to do with his feelings on things political. He is of the impression that the next member of congress from the "Big Seventh" will be a Republican.

Mr. Long says a great many people wil be interested incidentally in Mr. Bryan's explanation of good times. While he will round up a few county fairs in Kansas this week at so much per round-up, he will have a chance to explain how it is he was have a chance to explain how it is he was wrong in his predictions last year.

Mr. Bryan is now called upon to explain how it was he was wrong when he talked silver and wheat at the same price. True, a bushel of silver and a bushel of wheat now bring about the same price, but last year Mr. Bryan proposed to coin both at the same ratio. He may now tell about famines and good crops and say something about the terrible laws of supply and demand which last year had nothing to do with the case. with the case.

mand which last year had nothing to do with the case.

But as a matter of fact Mr. Bryan is struggling to keep prominent the silver issue. He goes down with the issue. Good prices for crops, not good crops alone by any means, will have a great deal to do with the 16 to 1 question and should good prices continue Mr. Bryan will not continue. It is a very critical time for Mr. Bryan and everyone else is on Easy street. Last year Mr. Long observes the Republicans had to explain that low prices were not due to the gold standard. The other fellows shouted that good times would never return under sound money conditions. Good times have returned and money is sound, now explain it. This is the predicament of the other fellow.

As the people become prosperous they ment of the other fellow.

As the people become prosperous they think less favorably of the Bryan issue and this condition confronts the other fellows. No explanation on the part of the Republicans but simply "I told you so."

BANKS IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

How Saving and Thrift Is Taught Children in the Schools of Massachusetts.

"I had never fully understood until this summer just why it was that the Yankees were such thrifty people and were always able to save something, no matter where they were placed or what circumstance they faced," said George Trainor, of Den-ver, at the Coates House yesterday. "I have always lived in the West, have seen plenty of the thrifty people from New England and now I understand why they are thrifty. They are trained to thriftiness as children. I'll give you an instance:

"They have savings banks in the public schools down in Massachusetts, and there is the greatest rivalry among the pupils to see who can earn and accumulate the most money during the terms. That was a new idea to me, and it is a very amusing one to a Westerner who has liberal and somewhat care-free ideas of economics. For rive years in the Huntington school of Campello, Mass., the savings bank has been in operation, and during that time the pupils of the school have saved and now have on deposit nearly $6,000. To be exact, the sum is $5,370. That was shown at the report last Christmas. In the five years there have been accounts opened with $7 pupils and their deposits have ranged from 1 penny to $1. Little fellows who pick up a few pennies at a time have been able to gather up a few dollars in the course of a year, while others who had better chances have been able to save several dollars, and make a tidy account. The deposits are kept with the teachers and are carefully placed where they draw a little interest, all of which goes to the credit of the depositors.

"It was a fact made very prominent in the report of the school that pupils who were in the primary department when the savings fund was started and begun business with it are still accumulating as they go up in the grades of the school and some of them have been able to gather up snug sums. The habit of thrift and accumulation is the one that is desired. It was a new idea to me and impressed me very much. If education is for the purpose of sitting boys and girls for the practical duties of life the Massachusetts idea appears to be founded correctly and is sure to produce good results." plenty of the thrifty people from New England and now I understand why they are

Chairman F. C. Armstrong, of the Dawe commission, was at the Coates House yes erday. He came in yesterday morning with Mrs. Armstrong from Washington, and left last evening for Fort Gibson. I. He has been in the East on business for several weeks, and has not been taking part in the recent work of the commission. The Dawes commission has been hard at work for a long time trying to get the differences adjusted, and, while it has done much, it still has much to do. He says the reports are favorable for an agreement with the Creeks when the commission meets that tribe on the 15th. Favorable indications have been reported so often that he has quite ceased to base any great hopes on them. with Mrs. Armstrong from Washington.

If they do not, and he thinks no settlement will be reached, congress will take up the report of the commission and settle the whole affair by a legislative enactment, and that will end the whole matter. He says the work of the commission at present is devoted principally to securing the legal enrollment of the Indians, a task that is tedious and hard to handle.

FRIGHTFUL SIREN WHISTLE. Arkansas City Has One, and It Some

times Scares Strangers Nearly to Death. "Of all the discordant and fear-inspiring noises for a fire alarm I have ever heard, the fire whistle at Arkansas City, Kas., beats the world," said H. G. Francis, of Texas, at the Midland yesterday. "The beats the world, said H. G. Francis, of Texas, at the Midland yesterday. "The noise it makes is entirely unlike anything else on earth. It is a screeching, changeable tone that varies from high C down to a sub bass and it makes the hop, skip and jump in the most erratic fashion imaginable. The first time I heard it was one night when all was still and quiet about the city. It opened up at high C and held it longer than Miss Yaw ever dreamed of trying and then it began hitting the variations in a most frightful manner. You bet I got out of bed and downstairs in recordbreaking time. It sounded very close to the hotel, and I was prepared to run into a rlot, a lynching or something else gaite as bad. The night clerk sat quietly Smoking when I reached the office and in answer to my frightened inquiries said it was only a small blaze out in the suburbs, didn't amount to a thing and the guests needn't allow the noise to bother them in the least. He seemed to imagine a man could sleep in the city with that infernal whistle howling, and said it didn't bother the residents in the least. I think there will be a fine field for an artist to practice down there if they use the whistle very much."

That't the Prime Essential in Growing an Orchard, Something Contemplated by Many Just Now. "The high prices of fruit and the money that fruit growers are making this year will cause many people to put out orchards," said Postmaster Homer Reed. "The people who jump into that sort of work when the crop makes a hit will find it is not the easiest matter to grow an orchard. Many of them will fail. Those who have tried the work know how much there is that will always have to be learned by experience. Any man who has planted and raised an orchard could do a better job now for one-third the cost. There is money in a good orchard, but in a poor one there is nothing but bother and disappointment, and no work can make a good orchard out of a poor start."

MISSOURI MINING REPORT.

end Ore in Good Demand at an Advance, but Zinc Ore Declined

During Past Week. Joplin, Sept. 5 .- (Special.) Lead ore advanced again during the past week $1 per thousand pounds and was in great demand, but zinc ore declined half a dollar a ton. The weather was favorable for mining but the output was considerably reduced on account of many mines being shut down several days to allow the miners to attend the various attractions occurring in the mining district and vicinity.

The top price paid for zinc ore in all portions of the district except Springfield was $22.50 per ton. One carload of Springfield ore brought $23 per ton, the top price of the preceding week. Most of the zinc ore brought from $20 to $22 per ton. The average price paid for zinc ore was 50 cents per ton less than the preceding week, there being a general decline in all grades of the ore. Considerable of the Joplin ore, all of the Stotts City. Alba and Oronogo product and a portion of the Springfield product brought $2.50 per ton.

Lead ore started in at $2.75 per thousand pounds, delivered, and on Friday advanced to $24.75 per thousand. The week closed firm at those figures, with indications of still further advances this week. The demand for lead ore was very strong and since many of the low grade silver mines, which reduced a great deal of galena, have shut down, there is considerable outside demand for Missouri lead ore.

The shipments of zinc ore were twenty-six carloads less than the preceding week, but were thirty-two carloads more than the corresponding week of last year. There was an increase of 3.89 pounds in the week's sales of lead over the sales of the preceding week and an increase of five carloads over the sales of the corresponding week of last year.

The price paid for lead ore last week was $16.25 per thousand pounds more than during the corresponding week last year.

KILLED ON AIR LINE TRACKS

GEORGE KNOCHE IS RUN DOWN BY A SWITCH ENGINE.

He Was Deaf and Did Not Hear the Engine as It Thundered Down Upon Him-Was an Uncle of Dr. J. P. Knoche.

George Knoche, a real estate dealer of this city, was struck by a west bound Air line switch engine, between Crescent station and the Milwaukee junction, about three miles east of the city, at 8:30 o'clock last night. His neck was broken and his skull fractured at the base. He was brought to the city, and died on the depot platform at Second and Wyandotte streets before a surgeon could reach him. He did not regain consciousness before he died. Mr. Knoche was an uncle of Dr. J. P.

knoche and John Knoche, of this city, and lived on the Knoche farm, a mile and a half east of Crescent station. While not transacting real estate business in the city, he remained at the farm with his sister, Dr. and John Knoche's stepmother. He took an Air line train at the Grand Central depot at 6:30 yesterday evening, and Conductor Ellis, of the train, saw him get off at Crescent. He went to the farm of Charles Booker, where, as cierk of the school board of his section, he transacted some business. Leaving Mr. Booker's house about 8 o'clock, Mr. Knoche walked back to the Air line tracks and started eastward toward home.

He was almost totally deaf, and was walking along with his head down when he was struck by the engine. Foreman Edward Sheehan, of the switch crew, and one of his helpers named Martin McDonald, were sitting on the front of the engine. They saw Knoche approaching at a distance of about thirty yards and called to him several times to get off the track. Sheehan says Mr. Knoche paid no attention to him or McDonald and did not lift his head until the engine was almost upon him. Then he saw his danger and made an attempt to jump, but was too late, and the engine knocked him from the track, hurling the body twenty feet through the air. The engineer stopped the engine and Mr. Knoche was placed in the cab and brought to the city. Deputy Coroner Wheeler ordered the body removed to Stewart's undertaking rooms.

George Knoche was 47 years old and a native of Berleberg, Germany. He came to this country with his parents in 1858, settling near Martin City, Mo., where until eight years ago he owned a farm of 400 acres. He sold the farm and started a store at Belton, Mo., but it did not prove a financial success and later he came to Kansas City. Here he conducted a curbstone real estate business with little success. Five years ago his wife secured a divorce from him and with their four children returned to her folks near Martin City.

Dr. and John Knoche were notified of their uncle's death last night by a re clared a rigid quarantine against Ocean Springs.

New Orleans, Sept. 5.—The Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana boards of health have been at Ocean Springs since yesterday afternoon. An examination of the prevailing disease was made a week ago. There have been several hundred cases, but very few deaths, and a board of experts declared the disease dengue fever. Since then mortalities have become more frequent and the symptoms looked more like yellow fever, and the alarm became so great that the health authorities again gathered. This time they were accompanied by Professor A. L. Metz. chemist of the Louisiana board, who analyzed the evidence in several cases. The verdict tonight was yellow fever and various points on both sides of the town are rapidly declaring quarantile.

A Doubt Now Exists. Ocean Springs, Miss., Sept. 5.—This has been a day of anxious expectancy as to whether or not yellow fever exists here, and the question has not yet been deter-

Ruddick's first wife ran away with a negro, it is said, three years ago. Last March he was married again but learned, upon going Saturday night to his home at Twelfth street and Michigan avenue, that his second wife had deserted him for another man. He returned down town and bought morphine, which he took yesterday morning. It was his second attempt at suicide, the first one having been made a month ago.

Ruddick was 25 years old and had worked for Peet Bros, four years. He had a brother in Kansas City, Kas. Ruddick also left a letter for his wife, Alma, upbraiding her for her treatment of him.

"An American Beauty." Hugh Morton and Gustave Kerker's opera, in which Lillian Russell was seen here a y-ar ago, has been entirely recast, although the same elaborate and beautiful scenery and the same attractive costumes that delighted those who heard and saw the presentation before are retained. Corinne is Miss Russell's successor in the title role. Unlike Miss Russell, Corinne has neither the ohysical attributes nor the personal style to McSorley's Twins!

Miss Russell, Corinne has neither the obysical attributes nor the personal style to suggest a Newport society belle, even under the license of comic opera; but she enters into the frolicsome tendencies alleged to have been inherited by Mrs. Dalmont from her aunt, with zest and makes herself a delightful figure of the performance. She is slighter and sings better than when she last appeared in this city, and she has some very pretty costumes. Frank David is an entirely satisfactory successor to Jerome Sykes, whom he resembles. He sings so much better than most operatic comedians that he is doubly welcome. Owen Fitzgerald, the tenor, has a good voice, but an indifferent manner. afternoon and last night were brisk, and kept the audience in continuous merriment.

Proctor's Pleasure Party, in a new play, opened a week's engagement at the Ninth Street yesterday evening. The plece, the author of which is not given, is a story of farm life in four acts, with more than a strong resemblance to a number of well known pastoral plays now before the public. Its most glaring defect is lack of originality, there being hardly a scene but can be traced to such pieces as "The Jucklins," "Human Hearts" and "A Temperance Town." Like the last named piece, the story is woven around the efforts of the prohibition element in a small town to oust the saloon crowd, and of course the leader of the opposition is a villain disguising himself in clerical garb. Most all the old familiar faces are to be seen—the wealthy farmer, his nagging wife, the son who gets into debt and is accused of stealing money from the farmer, which has really been taken by the villain, and the good young man who takes the blame of the theft on himself, saves the son and wins the daughter. Mr. Billy Robinson plays Uncle Ezra, the old man part, with ability, displaying many clever character touches. Mr. Charles W. Terriss plays acceptably a part much resembling the school teacher in "The Jucklins." Mr. Pryse Mackye is cast as the villain, a part to which he does full justice. A clever bit of character work is done by Miss Lizzie Chester as Maria, the old man's nagging wife. Elsie Meeker, the daughter, impersonated by Miss Maude Courtney, was all that could be expected from a character so limited in its scope. The soubrette role was entrusted to Miss Anna Dorothy, whose dancing made a bit. The singing of Mr. E. F. Couch was excellent.

A standard make bicycle is given away at each performance. The drawing last night went to E. C. McKean, 808 Main street.
